This morning on opening our country orders we were greatly pleased to receive the following from a gentleman in Bahia Blanca.

Gentlemen,
I fully believe the advice given in your advertisement has saved my life. Yesterday I took a long drive in the camp.
The morning was fine, but in the evening a terrible cold South wind came up and began to chill me to the bone. Last night I was ill with pneumonia and my lungs have since been delicate, what could do without wraps and only thin clothing on. All at once the idea occurred to me that the suggestion in your advertisement might be put into practice, so I called at a ranch and asked for an old newspaper, folded it up, laid it across my chest, fastened my coat and drove off triumphantly. I am now well and you, next time I am in town I will call upon you and lay in a good stock of underclothing and shawls for my celebrated Pyjamas suits.

We take the opportunity to thank our patrons for their past favours, and hope that our present relations may continue.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.
THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT FOR IRELAND.
The Lord Chancellor read the Queen's Speech, as follows:—

My Lords and Gentlemen, I am persuaded that you have deeply participated in the terrible sorrow which has afflicted me and my family in the loss at the moment when the prospects of the future seemed the brightest, of my dearly beloved grandson, Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale.
It has been a source to us in our grief to have received from all classes and from all parts of my Empire, as well as from foreign countries, the most touching sympathies of their deep sympathy under this grievous affliction, and the expression of their affectionate regard and sympathy for the young Prince whom they have lost in this great calamity.

My relations with other Powers continue to be friendly. I have lost in the Victory of Egypt a loyal ally, whose Government I had, in the space of a few years, largely contributed to restore prosperity and peace to his country. I have an entire confidence that the same zealous policy will be followed by the new Government, and that the friendly relations, in accordance with previous Firmness, by His Imperial Majesty the Sultan. An Agreement has been concluded with the United States, defining the mode in which the disputes at sea shall be settled. What their friends and admirers in this country hope is that they will soon learn to govern and resist such tricks that identify the governing classes in the United States with the Wall Street gentry for the Marshall's dominions and to the promotion of British commerce on the East African Coast.

The Estimates for the Public Service for the year have been prepared with the aid of the Finance Committee.
Proposals will be laid before you for applying to Ireland the general principles affecting Local Government which have already been adopted in Great Britain, and I trust that it may be possible to consider the provisions as to English Local Government which, for want of time, was necessary to omit from the former Bill. A measure for increasing the number of small holdings of land in agricultural districts in Great Britain will be submitted for your approval. You will be asked to consider a Bill for extending the advantages of Assisted Education to Ireland, and for other purposes connected with Elementary Education in that country. A scheme for modifying the existing system of procedure on Private Bills, so far as it affects Scotland and Ireland, will be introduced for the improvement of the Legislative Councils in India. A Bill will be laid before you for relieving Public Elementary Schools in England from the present pressure of local rates.
Proposals for improving the discipline of the Established Church in regard to moral offences, for enabling accused persons to be examined on their trial for revising the existing Agreements between the Government and the Bank of England; and for amending the Law with respect to the liability of employers for injuries incurred in their employment, will also be submitted to your attention. I pray that Almighty God may guide you in the performance of your weighty functions.

Mr. Hodge moved, and Mr. Milvain seconded, the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. Sir W. Harcourt, who, in Mr. Gladstone's absence opened the debate which followed, presented for information as to the intentions of the Chancellor of the Exchequer with regard to the currency, the subject having been placed in a dark corner of the Queen's Speech. The rest of the Speech he deemed as a catalogue of subsequent speakers, and the debate was adjourned on the motion of Mr.

Broadhurst.

General Booth and staff arrived at Dover in a special steamer on the 8th.
From Australia and India. A dozen small steamers went out to meet him.
The Bateau Legue has at last got into the English harbours, before Justice North. It was stated by Sir Horace Dovey that he could positively produce the payment of £400,000 by Messrs.
Baring to procure the concession known as Samuel B. Hale's, so valuable was the concession supposed to be. He spoke very severely of "the Barings" and "the direct" and "the indirect" pecuniary inducements "used in the subsequent proceedings with the shareholders.
